Deuteronomy 30:10-14 | Colossians 1:15-20 | Luke 10:25-37

Dear brothers and sisters,

In today's Gospel, a lawyer asks Jesus: "Who is my neighbor?" And Jesus answers not with a definition, but with a story—the story of the Good Samaritan. A man is beaten, left half dead, and two respected people pass by. But a stranger, a Samaritan, stops to help. He binds his wounds, carries him, and pays for his care.

The lesson is clear: compassion knows no boundaries. Being a neighbor is not about who lives next door, but about how far your heart can reach.

The First Reading reminds us that God's Word is already in our hearts: "It is very near to you, in your mouth and in your heart for you to observe." You don't have to climb a mountain or cross the sea to find God. He is already within you, waiting for you to act with love.

St. Paul reminds us in Colossians that Christ is the image of the invisible God—and we are called to reflect that image by how we treat others.

Let us live this week with open hearts and helping hands.

"Do small things with great love." – St. Mother Teresa

"The measure of love is to love without measure." – St. Augustine

Let us open our hearts this week. Let us become Good Samaritans in our homes, streets, and workplaces.

Who is your neighbor today? How will you "go and do likewise"?

This Week's Gospel Challenge

Take one step to become someone's Good Samaritan.

Visit a sick friend, help a stranger, or forgive someone who has hurt you.
